

Action taken report on Curriculum Feedback 2018-19

The feedback on our curriculum was gathered through a variety of methods, including feedback from student, faculty, alumni, employers and parents, discussions during IQAC sessions. The key areas of feedback were as follows:

- Diversity and Inclusivity: Students highlighted the need for a more diverse and inclusive curriculum, both in terms of content and perspectives.
- Skill Development: Many students emphasized the importance of developing practical skills alongside theoretical knowledge.

1. Action Taken:

Based on the feedback received, the IQAC and curriculum committees have taken the following actions:

- Diversity and Inclusivity: Efforts have been made to diversify reading materials, include works from underrepresented authors, and ensure a more balanced representation of perspectives.
- Skill Enhancement: Workshops and training programs have been organized to enhance students' practical skills, such as communication, problem-solving, and leadership.

2. Conclusion:

In conclusion, the IQAC of Adamas University recognizes the vital role of a dynamic and responsive curriculum in providing students with a high-quality learning experience. The invaluable feedback from our stakeholders has served as a compass, guiding our efforts to refine and improve our academic offerings.

The actions taken, including curriculum reviews, new course developments, and efforts reflect our dedication to meeting the evolving needs of our student body. We are confident that these changes will better equip our students for successful careers in their chosen fields, preparing them to navigate the challenges and opportunities of the modern professional landscape.

Looking ahead, our commitment to excellence remains steadfast. We will continue to closely monitor the effectiveness of these changes through robust feedback mechanisms and performance evaluations. This ongoing evaluation ensures that our curriculum stays aligned with the latest advancements in academia and industry, maintaining relevance and excellence.

The IQAC of Adamas University is unwavering in our mission to foster a diverse, inclusive, and innovative learning environment. We are committed to the continuous improvement of our curriculum, ensuring that it not only meets but exceeds the expectations of our students and stakeholders.
